

The North Wind and the Sun wer disputing which woz the stron'gher, when a travveler came along rapt in a worm cloke. Dha agrede dhat the wun whoo ferst suxeded in making the travveler take hiz cloke of shood be concidderd stron'gher dhan the uther. Then the North Wind blu az hard az he cood, but the mor he blu the mor cloasly did the travveler foald hiz cloke around him; and at laast the North Wind gave up the atempt. Then the Sun shiand out wormly, and imejaitly the travveler tooc of hiz cloke. And so the North Wind woz obliajd too confes dhat the Sun woz the stron'gher ov the too.